My principal interest lies in public open space and foreshore access.

1 - A boardwalk from the Blackwattle Bay Marina around the foreshore under the abutment of the old Glebe Island Bridge, to link with the foreshore at Jacksons Landing.

This could either be canilevered off the foreshore, or freestanding like the Boatbuilders Walk from Sawmillers Reserve at McMahons Point to the end of Munro Street.

With its western aspect and increased global warming, some form of awning could be designed to counter this aspect.

2 - A slimline awning down the centre of Pyrmont Pedestrian Bridge. This would counter our increasing temperatures. In a country with such high rates of skin cancer, very exposed public walkways require some duty of care thinking.

3 - Wentworth Park. A return to a Pleasure Gardens style design. Playing fields required could be integrated within the gardens and pathways.

4 - Development of ferry wharves around Blackwattle, Rozelle and White Bays. A new ferry network integrating with Barangaroo and Circular Quay. Possible options: end of Harris Street, end of Miller Street, Fishmarket, Blackwattle Bay Park, end of Glebe point Road, somewhere near end of Johnston Street or Rozelle Bay LR Stop and somewhere along the northern side of White Bay.

I agree to the above statement
