I object to making permanent the Emergency Covid-19 allowances for Food Trucks in residential areas.

For the last several months, we have been subjected to the additional noise and traffic generated by a regular food truck operating 3 nights per week opposite our home.

Extending the permissible hours of operation of food trucks within residential areas will disturb the quiet amenity of residential properties later into the night. There needs to be tighter control on these sorts of businesses to ensure they are not operating in locations which are not suitable. It is not enough to simply require the consent of the landowner; rather, an assessment of the neighbouring properties should be undertaken with opportunity for neighbours to object.

When we made a complaint about the food truck operating opposite our house we were told there was nothing that could be done as they were operating under the Emergency provisions. These provisions are not suitable to be permanent.
