Although I don't currently reside in NSW, I was born in NSW and I will be relocating to NSW, Central Coast within the next month.

I therefore feel that I have a right to comment on this proposal.

As has been mentioned, space is finite. I therefore do not believe burial sites should be of great importance to our planning. However, if there exists the possibility to generate 'forests' on now bare land, then I feel that would be appropriate.

For example, there have been talk of whether trees could be gravestones elsewhere.

The clearing of forests to make way for a cemetery however, should not be considered.

I agree to the above statement
